19. Attractions to visit in the city of Asunción and the metropolitan area

Asunción is the capital and the most populous city in the Republic of Paraguay. It is an autonomous municipality administered as a capital district and is not formally integrated into any department. It is located in the center-west of the Eastern Region of the country, bordering to the north with the Paraguayan River that separates it from the department of Presidente Hayes, and in turn from the Western Region; to the south and east with the Central Department and to the west with the Paraguay River, near the Pilcomayo River, which separates it from the Argentine Republic. Founded on August 15, 1537, it is one of the oldest cities in South America.

With 521.091 inhabitants in 2023, it is the most populated and urban city in the country. While its metropolitan region, called Gran Asunción, increases its population to almost 2.343.908 inhabitants, thus making it one of the 20 largest urban agglomerations in South America. Its surface area is 117 km² in the city, and 2.582 km² the Great Asunción.

Asunción is the seat of the three branches of the nation (Executive, Legislative and Judicial), and the main river port (Directorate General of Customs), also constitutes the cultural center of the country. Despite some variations in the course of time, from its foundation to the present, Asunción is the center of national activity. The capital gives the main resolutions and projects of the powers of the State, and centralises the banking, the economic, cultural, diplomatic, social, trade unions and industrial entities of the country. From Asunción they teach most of the main routes of the country, to the main cities of the country.

Asunción is considered a global city of category “gamma -”. The city is among the cheapest capitals in the world, and lately as one of the best cities for investment, both construction and services. It also has varied services of gastronomy, hotels and shops of first level, retaining until today most of its historic buildings, combined with wide and wooded avenues that have the largest infrastructure of shopping centers, bars, cinemas, casinos, theaters and leisure places within the city. It is recommended to wear sunscreen, caps, comfortable shoes such as sandals, sports shoes (tennis), fresh clothing and mosquito repellent.
